

Work Related Learning Year 5

For our WRL day Year 5 became journalists. We watched a short clip, which described how a journalist for a newspaper had to use precise language when writing their articles. We chose our area of specialism and began to research information to use when writing an article for 'The Springbank Times'.

We looked at the National Geographic, BBC wildlife and Sky At Night magazines to get ideas about how to write an article. We identified the precise language used and looked at the layout/features which were include in the articles. We then went on to research the manufacturing process which goes into producing a magazine, and the job opportunities linked to it.
